British bulldogs

Main idea:

The goal of the game is that the players have some time to run across from one side of the field to another and the "bulldogs" don't have any time to touch them.

Rules:

Children appoint two catchers ("bulldogs"). "Bulldogs" stand on one side of the playground, and the others on the opposite.

All the players must run to another side after the signal of a "bulldogs". But so that the player isn't caught by "bulldogs".

The game continues until all the players turn into bulldogs.

Advantages:

This game helps children become more attentive, find new friends and help each other.

Cats Corner

Main Idea: To catch as many players as you can

Rules:

One or several persons are selected. Each of them takes a ball and stands in the centre. Other players become "cats" in the corners. Cats run to different corners of the hall. While the cats are running the person tries to hit them with the ball. If he/she succeeds, a cat stands behind the host. The winner is the player who has more "cats" behind him/her or the cat who is not knocked out.

Advantages: The game helps to develop accuracy, dexterity and speed.

Darling, do you love me?

Main idea:

This game is for boys and girls. You can play this game with friends for fun. This is a great way to learn how to work in a group or just to have

Rules:

Players form a circle with one player in the middle. The leader in the center asks someone: "Darling, do you love me?". The player answering a question says: "Darling, I love you, but I can't smile." If the player smiles or laughs when answering, he goes to the center of the circle.

The one who has never visited the center wins.

Advantages:

This game develops team work and communication skills.

Based

"Duck, duck, goose" game.

Main Idea:

Unite children in a coherent team or warm up before the lesson.

Rules:

- ① Gather the children,

② Stand in a circle,
③ Choose one child to come to the centre of a circle,
④ When he/she walks in a circle he/she must touch the head of every child sitting in the circle and say: "Duck, Duck, Duck..." when he/she says "Duck" nothing happens. When he/she touches someones head and says: "Goose", the "Goose" should get up and chase the leader around. Duck needs to take the place of the goose. If a duck takes the place of a goose, the goose becomes a duck. If a goose catches a duck, it sits alone and the game continues.

Advantages:

"Duck, Duck, Goose" is a game for young children. It is quite mobile and cheerful game

eatable un eatable

Main idea: develop attention learn to focus on a specific subject. Learn to quickly divide objects into two groups: eatable - uneatable

Rules: first you need to choose a leader and then she/he throws the ball in turn and names any fruit or vegetable if it is eatable, then the player should catch the ball and if uneatable then hit, if a player catches an uneatable ball he is eliminated

Popular: The popularity of this game lies in the fact that not only children but also adults can play it, because the rules of this game are very simple to understand. So even a first grader can cope with it.

(Gyriov Vika, Gurina Nastia, 13 yo)

Hot and Cold.

Main idea: The main idea of this game is to have fun with your friend or other guys.

Rules: Rules of this game are very simple. You hide any object and your friend looks for it with your tips: „colder, colder” or „hoter, hoter”.

Popular: This game is popular both in England and in Russia. Children like this game and it is very funny and interesting to play.

Just a minute!

Main Idea: Score as many points as you can.

Rules: The leader gives the players a topic (it can be absolutely anything). The player's task is to speak for one minute without hesitation, not repeating the words and not deviating from the topic. If none of the players challenged<sup>93</sup> him/her at the sixteen second he/she gets 1 point.

If competing players hear likes, repetitions, failure on another topic - they press the bell. If the leader considers that the stop is justified, the applicant has the right to continue (plus 1 point for a loyal challenge) stopwatch start again. If the leader is not supports the challenge, the point gets interrupted, and he/she continue to speak.

The history of the challenger is in no way connected with the history of the first player, he/she begins his own. The advantage is that now he/she only needs to speak the seconds remaining until the sixteen. And so on until one minute expires.

Advantages: develop imagination, oral skills and group work.

Kid in the sky

Main Idea: to throw or to dodge the ball.

Rules: You need a ball. Before the game, everybody gets a number. The eldest child takes the ball and throws the ball up and says: "The kid in the sky is number...", then says any number and runs away. The child, whose number is named, catches the ball and quickly shouts: "Freeze!". After, he throws the ball at any of children. If the ball hits the child, the child who hits the ball, becomes the leader. If the ball doesn't hit the child, the throwing child becomes the leader.

Advantages: To train how to throw a ball, to become more athletic.

leapfrog.

There are many interesting games, you can play during the break at school and outside with your friends.

And one of such games is "leapfrog".

Rules: Rules of this game are very simple. It is better to play outside. You need at least two people for the game. If there are more players it will become funnier.

First, you need to line up and squat as close to the ground, then the one who stands up and jumps over other players to the end of the chain.

There should be at least one meter between the players.

Advantages: This game is useful because children can spend their free time and at the same time useful with pleasure.

The game strengthens muscles, children spend more time outdoors and, of course, raise their mood.

( Milena Khilova, 13 )

Main idea: to Knock out more glass balls than your rival. ❤

Rules: put all balls onto the table, and leave some space between them. Then take one big ball and pinch it in a fist.

After it, push the ball with your thumb. And try to Knock out as many glass balls as you can. 🌟

Advantages: you should try to play this game at home, or at school break, because it develops fine motor skills and your brain. 🌟

red light - green light

Plain idea:

The goal of the game is to get from one end of the playing area to the other (or back again) without being called out because you keep moving after „Red light“ is said.

Rules:

The person, who will be „It“ (the traffic light) stands a certain distance away from the other players (5+ metres) with his back to them. The other players stand behind the line.

When „It“ calls „Green Light“, the other players move towards him/her until he/she spins around, saying „Red Light“. When they hear „the red light“ command all the players must stop. The player, who moves, returns to the start line. The children must remain „Frozen“ until the next „Green Light“ command.

The play continues this way until someone reaches and tags „It“. The tagger becomes the new „It“ and the game starts again.

Advantages:

„Red Light - Green Light“ is a great team game makes kids move, teach to concentrate and control your gestures.
